A Letter from Rabbi Bigman

The month of Elul began on the last Shabbat of August. As we journey towards the High Holy Days, which begin at sundown on Sunday, September 25, I hope these excerpts from an article written by Rabbi John Rosove in "The Jewish Journal" [August 22, 2014] will be helpful. He titled his article "10 Suggestions For Elul":

[The month of Elul] is the "get ready" month before the High Holidays, and the more we do in preparation in advance of the holidays, the more we will personally benefit. We need that focus as individual Jews now more than ever.

A la David Letterman, I offer ten suggestions...:

#10 – Break your daily routine. Identify one bad habit you wish to break. Focus on the good qualities of others and not their bad qualities. Begin to let go of your anger, resentment and hurt. Clean up your language. If you wouldn't say certain things in front of a child or your mother, then don't say it at all, ever.

#9 – Take your shoes off. A "USA Today" study reported years ago that those who habitually kick off their shoes under the dining table, desk or pew tend to live three years longer than the average American. Your feet are like the soul. Feet bound for too long begin to stink, and cloistered souls prevent divine light from shining forth.

#8 – Meditate – ...Meditation is a means to become more aware and conscious... Meditation trains us to listen to what is happening within and around us, and consequently to be more present with our loved ones.

#7 – Exercise every day – Walk, swim, ride a bicycle, and keep your body toned. Whenever possible, walk the stairs. Park at the far end of a parking lot. The number of calories we burn this way will result in the loss of pounds over the course of a year, lower our heart rates, reduce our blood pressure, create a healthier physique, and enable us to feel a greater sense of well-being. At the same time, reduce the number of calories we take in, eliminate sugar and salt, and eat well (see #6 for occasional relief!).

#6 – Do one "wild" thing each day, such as:

- Have an ice cream
- Eat chocolate
- Buy a loved one a gift for no good reason at unexpected times
- Laugh whenever possible

A Letter from Rabbi Bigman

- Stretch everywhere
- Sing in the shower
- Say hello to a perfect stranger...
- Be kind for no reason at all
- Let the guy cut in front of you in traffic...

#5 – Learn to say "No" more often when you are overtaxed and exhausted. And say "Yes" to spending time doing those things that feed your soul, inspire you, infuse you with strength, and draw you closer to the people you love and care most about. Read great literature. Find great teachers. Do mitzvot that accentuate kindness...

#4 – Strengthen your friendships – Express gratitude to your dear ones more freely. Tell them why they are precious to you.

#3 – Come to worship services more often. Join with others as a community in praise and prayer. Studies indicate that those who worship regularly in community are less lonely and actually live longer.

#2 – Light candles on Shabbat even if you are alone. Buy or bake challah and fill your cup with good wine (or juice) to the very top – and then drink it all! Acknowledge God's presence everywhere. Feel humility before the Creator. Know that all creation is interconnected within the great Oneness of God.

#1 – Learn Torah. Take advantage of adult learning opportunities. Find one verse or more in the Hebrew Bible that speaks to you personally, and let it become your "mantra." It may be "Vay'hi or – Let there be light!" "V'ahavta l'reiacha kamocha – Love your fellow as yourself," "V'ahavta et Adonai Eloheicha – Love Adonai your God," "Tzedek tzedek tirdof – Justice, justice shall you pursue," "Shiviti Adonai l'negdi tamid – I have set God always opposite me." "Sh'ma Yisrael.... – Listen O Israel, Adonai is our God, Adonai alone!" Commit the verse to memory. Make it your own. Say it to yourself frequently and become its words.

I hope you find Rabbi Rosove's Elul suggestions helpful as you journey through this month of Elul, preparing for the High Holy Days. I look forward to seeing you for Selichot and Yamim Nora'im worship. May you and your loved ones be blessed with a year of good health and much joy! HAPPY 5783!

SHANAH TOVAH—HAPPY NEW YEAR!

High Holy Days Food & Toiletries Drive

Dear Shaarey Zedek Families,

It has been our tradition for many years to take the opportunity during the High Holiday Season to go above and beyond our regular support of those in our community who may need additional assistance.

Over the last few years, while everything around us has been changing rapidly from one moment to the next, one thing has remained consistent – our commitment to helping our community through difficult times. We will distribute bags in Rosh Hashanah and ask that you use them to fill with items to be donated to the Greater Lansing Food Bank. While the Greater Lansing Food Bank is once again accepting physical donations, please feel welcome to provide monetary donations instead. The Greater Lansing Food Bank is able to stretch our dollars further than our canned goods.

Additionally, an envelope will be attached to the bags with which you can make a donation to MAZON. Through MAZON, Jews give voice to the Torah's call for justice, and embrace the traditional Jewish commitment to sustain the hungry.

The MAZON Mission Statement: Inspired by Jewish values and ideals, MAZON is a national advocacy organization working to end hunger among people of all faiths and backgrounds in the United States and Israel.

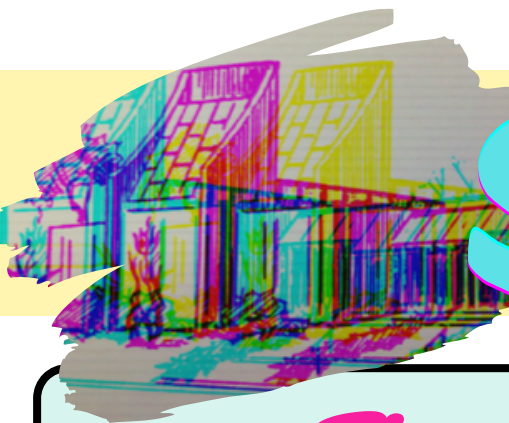

Their goals can only be accomplished with the support of our great Jewish community, and we urge Shaarey Zedek families to continue our tradition of support for their work and make a donation to this organization. To learn more about MAZON, please visit their website <http://www.mazon.org>.

Because of our congregation's continuous support, the Tzedakah Committee has been able to make donations to the Greater Lansing Food Bank and MAZON, but also local to the MSU Student Food Bank.

The MSU Student Food Bank serves MSU students experiencing food insecurity by providing free food and related items. To learn more about how you can provide support, please visit <http://www.foodbank.msu.edu>.

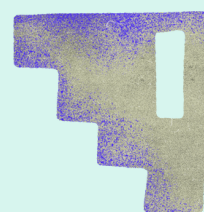

Thank you for your participation in this year's food drive!
