A Letter from Rabbi Bigman

This year the months of October and Tishrei are almost perfectly aligned: Tishrei begins at sundown on Wednesday, October 2 (Rosh HaShanah) and it ends on Friday, November 1. In other words, Tishrei and October are only off by one day. This is an interesting quirk of the calendar that doesn't happen all that often.

Tishrei, of course, brings with it the Yamim Nora'im (Days of Awe) as we begin our new year of 5785 and then, five days after Yom Kippur we begin the week-long festival of Sukkot. Although Sukkot and the other Pilgrimage Festivals (Pesach and Shavuot) are considered very important festivals, Sukkot is sometimes seen as an afterthought once the Days of Awe have concluded.

I recently read a wonderful teaching by Rabbi Bonnie Koppell titled "Sukkot and Perfection" which is excerpted below. I hope it helps you to celebrate Sukkot and to live life more fully!

I hate not being perfect. When I discover a typo in an email that I've sent, it's painful. If I forget to call someone, I beat myself up. I know -- it's an impossible standard. And it's not so healthy, because I sometimes, then, kind of, sort of, also expect other people to be perfect. That is a recipe for frustration and disappointment and alienation in the relationships that matter the most.

Which brings us to the sukkah, that most imperfect of structures. Each year, right after Yom Kippur, right after we've spent 10 days reminding ourselves of our own imperfection, we move into this imperfect little structure and call it home for a week. The sukkah needs only 2.5 walls to be kosher, and the roof must be more open than closed. The most imperfect of shelters, fragile and transient.

The mitzvah of the sukkah is just to sit there, to sit there and take it in. To sit there and realize that the sukkah is no home that we would want to live in on a permanent basis, yet, for one week, we call it good enough. Directly following all that effort during the Days of Awe focusing on the perfection of our souls, we are forced to contemplate, to surround ourselves, to just sit with imperfection.

Good enough is a hard concept. Sukkot is a celebration of nature, yet as we shake the lulav and etrog during the week they inevitably become dried out and wither, as does the schach that forms our semblance of a roof. Everything eventually fades, and while we try to keep these things alive and beautiful as long as possible, we recognize that nothing in life lasts forever. Not everything broken can be fixed and sometimes we have to live with "good enough."

...The desire for perfection can deter us from even getting started towards a goal. We may surrender to defeat, preferring to accomplish nothing if we know that the end result will be less than perfect. We may have trouble acknowledging our own humanity and accepting that of others...

I wish you and your loved ones a happy and healthy new year, a meaningful fast (for those who are safely able to do so), and an imperfect but meaningful Sukkot!

Please note: You are welcome to sit in the temple's sukkah throughout the week of Sukkot. Bring lunch or dinner to enjoy in the sukkah! If you would like to learn the prayers associated with sitting in the sukkah, please contact me at rabbibigman@shaarezedek.com. Please also see page 4 for information about our "Snacks in the Sukkah" and "Schnapps in the Sukkah" events.*

BUSINESS VICE PRESIDENT'S CORNER

JOHN ANTHONY

I have been a member of Congregation Shaarey Zedek for over 50 years. During this time, my daughters attended Sunday School, both became Bat Mitzvah, and continued through Confirmation. I have been on several committees and have participated in fundraising endeavors. Currently, I am in my 10th year as Chairperson of the Congregation Shaarey Zedek Endowment Fund. I have been responsible for maintaining and growing the fund, while adhering to the bylaw directions for the disbursement of funds.

My focus as Business Vice President will be on communication with the membership. This will include timely financial reports with total transparency regarding the financial condition of our congregation. The budget process will include our treasurer, our accountant, our president, and other interested members. In the interest of transparency, there will be a congregational meeting regarding the budget on Sunday, November 3 at 2 p.m. in the Davis Family Social Hall. We want to hear from you! Please join us for an important and informative conversation. I look forward to a productive 2024-2025 year.

Any member interested in our financial status or with other questions should feel free to contact me directly at 881-7290 or Johnanth25@gmail.com

Thank you so much to all the people who helped make the celebration of my ordination so lovely and special! I am very grateful to Rabbi Bigman, the board and the congregation for organizing and funding Rabbi Patrick Beaulier's visit. Thank you to Susi Greiner for choosing and performing beautiful music during the service on Friday night. Thank you to the families that sponsored the Oneg and the volunteers who came in to arrange everything and make it beautiful. I am very grateful also to everyone who helped with decorations and refreshments on Saturday night (Those dipped pretzels were amazing!). And I really appreciate the generous gift from the congregation!

I also want to thank the school committee, Rabbi Bigman, and the students and teachers of SZRS for not only creating a gorgeous gift for me but for keeping it a secret for MONTHS. I don't know how you got my 8-year-old to not tell me. That was impressive! The rocks are sooo beautiful and will warm my heart for years to come.

I also want to thank everyone who helped make the start of the school year a success, especially those folks who came in to help during our annual work party. Thank you to Kim Roth, Felix Brown, Madison Merryman, Asa Wheeler, Rachel Minkin and Roslyn Covey for all the amazing prep work you did to get the school wing in shape for the school year. I'd also like to extend a special thank you to Mark Silberstein and Randy Israel for taking care of issues in the school wing before the school year began.

THE STUDENTS MADE THE MOST BEAUTIFUL ROCKS!

Sincerely,
Menachelet Margot

Dear Sisters,

As I sit here on a very summer-like day it is very hard to fathom that fall is here!! I love my summer days and will enjoy the bright sunshine every chance I can get. I hope that you have had an enjoyable summer as well.

It is also that time of year where we look back at the past year and remember the good things as well as the things we can improve on. I am extremely pleased with our past year of Sisterhood. I am over the moon for our current Sisterhood board. Together we accomplished what we set out to do. Every event that we planned was followed through.

The love of our Sisterhood helps to ground me. I love everything about coming together in support of each other, as well as having fun and enjoying the company of some amazing women. Thank you to everyone that has supported Sisterhood this year. Thank you for your participation, financial support, your delicious goodies, and just for being YOU! Thank you to the Sisterhood board, as board members you take time out of your busy lives to lift up and support our sisters. Our board members demonstrate their commitment by thoughtful planning, organizing, and leading programs. We are always striving to create an inclusive environment for everyone. Please reach out with your thoughts and concerns. I will respond to your email within 48 hours wrenyk@aol.com.

I would like to extend my apologies to anyone I have hurt. I know this may not follow true teshuvah but in turn I promise to do my best in this upcoming year to listen to your thoughts, provide positive and uplifting support to all members. I will do my best to run meetings efficiently and to build the best community for our sisters as possible.

Karen Weinstein
